The Problem

Student's perspective

- Universities' career services don't work efficiently
- Application processes are highly time-consuming and expensive
- Difficult to get full scope of job possibilities

Company's perspective

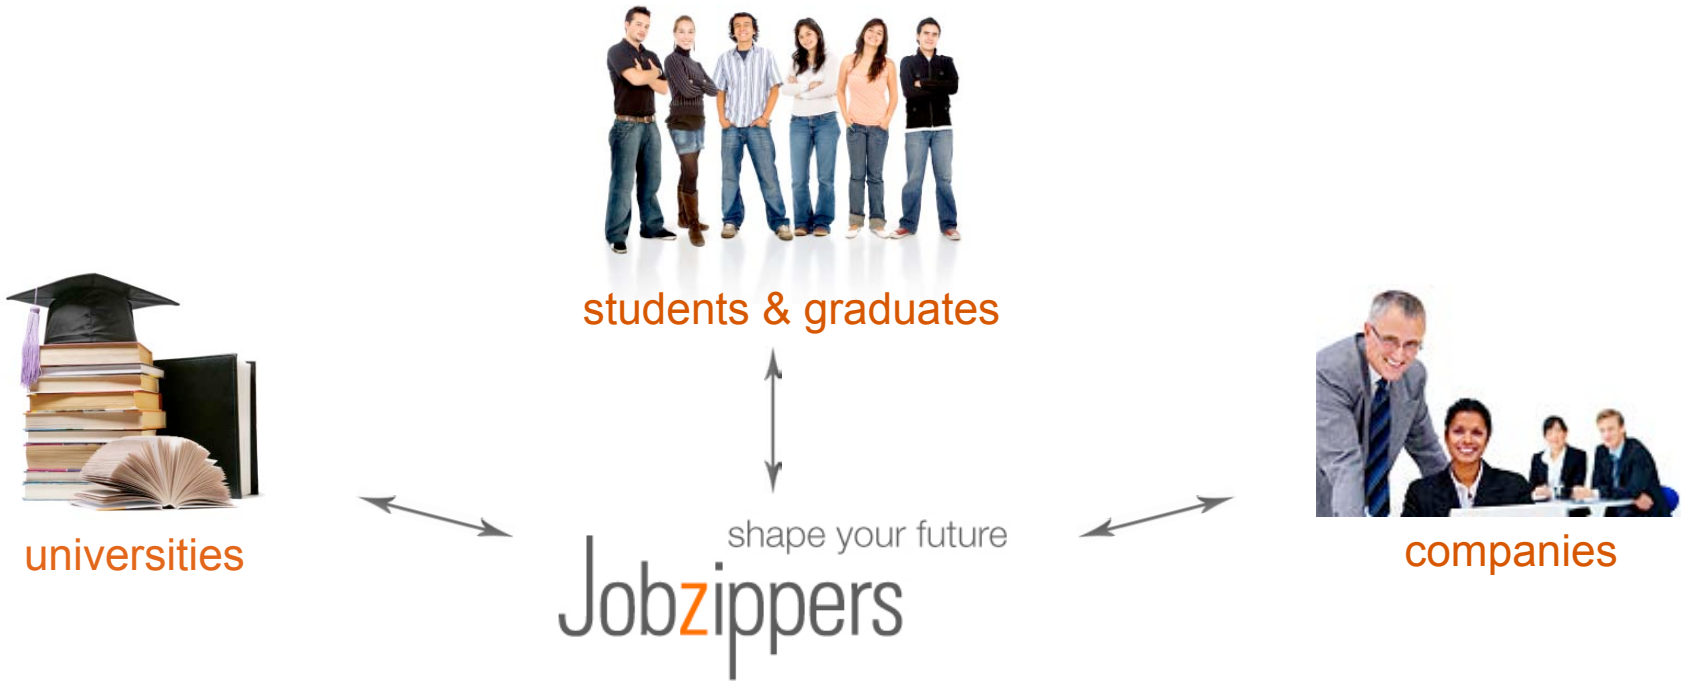

- Difficult to address highly qualified students directly through the universities
- High recruiting costs and time-consuming
- Unable to screen students' grades (data protection)

University's perspective

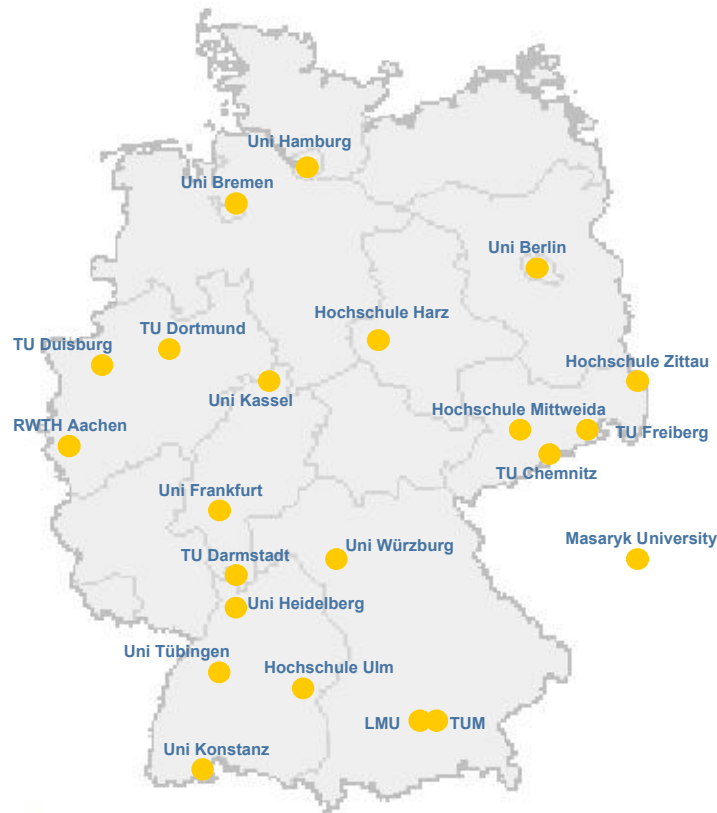

- Low quality career services (technology, staffing issues, maintenance, marketing) that do not satisfy the students' needs

The Solution: zipping students, universities and companies together

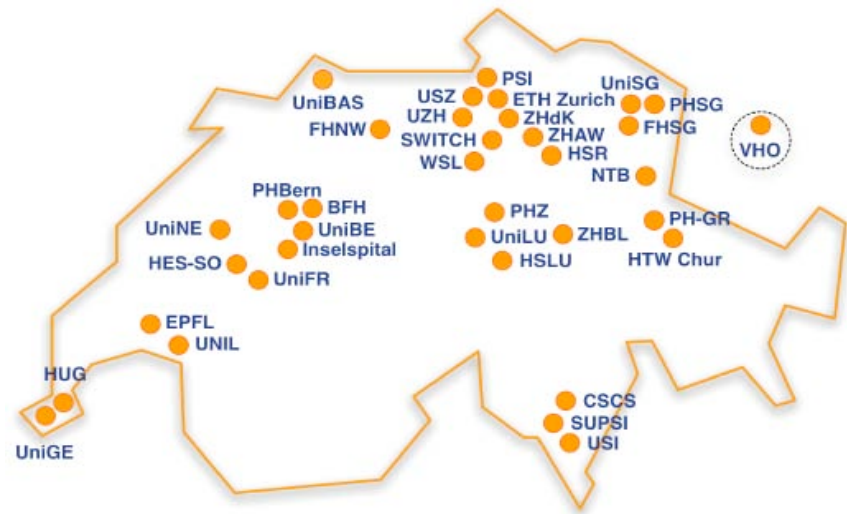

The Solution: one network of career services

Germany / DFN AAI

Switzerland / SWITCH AAI

The goal is to establish a European network of university career services through becoming federation partner of multiple AAI federations
